Why the Chinese market ?

Sport has always played an important role in Chinese society, a real system of values including loyalty, conformity, team spirit, cooperation and discipline.

One of the main aims of the Chinese government is to organize and participate in major international sports events, and assist the hosting of such events in China, promoting elite sports in turn.

Having hosted many world championships along the past years, China will become the first country in the world in organising both Summer (2008) and Winter Olympic Games (2022).

The Winter Olympic Games will be held in Beijing, a capital with an exceptional history and culture, while Yanqing and Zhangjiakou will offer a natural beauty paired with stunning views of the Great Wall, which would create a striking stage to showcase winter sports to audiences around the world.
